FREETHINK BETTER

To be good Freethinkers, we need to recognize the things that interfere with clear thinking, and employ strategies for becoming better thinkers.

David Broman has spent a lot of time trying to figure out why people believe what they believe. He was once a conservative Christian, but is now an atheist who has mixed political positions. He has worked with a variety of cultures and belief systems, having been a teacher in a Christian school, a Native American school, in Japan, in a treatment center, in both rural and urban areas, accumulating friends and family from every ideology and belief system.
